

WATCH: Covid-19 impacts on supply chains

During times like this, supply chains are a source of vulnerability. We've looked at three sectors which all make use of complex value chains.

Covid-19 impacts on supply chains

Higher trade barriers add to the costs of crossing a border and might make firms bring their production home. But this isn't the answer to making supply chains safe. Instead, it just makes them more vulnerable to a shock hitting the home country.
