

29 September 2017
Article

Japan: Another strong growth quarter

The third quarter's looking good, with little inflation pressure

0.7%

Japan inflation , July, YoY
Up from 0.5%

Strong growth trend in tact

Japanese inflation continued its slow grind higher this month. The national inflation rate now stands at 0.7% YoY, up from 0.5% YoY in July. Core inflation also rose in line with the headline index. Tokyo's inflation rate was 0.5% (unchanged from August). The Tokyo figures suggest that recent gains in national inflation will take a breather in September, with inflation staying at 0.7% YoY. The inflation gains look reasonable, with more subcomponents rising on the month than falling, though outside monthly gains in medical care and entertainment (1.7% MoM respectively) look unlikely to be repeated next month.

In a separate release, industrial production was very strong in August, rising 2.1%MoM leaving growth over the same month a year ago at a very respectable 5.4%. This is a good start to third-quarter output and means that any pullback from the stellar 2Q GDP figure might not be too drastic, keeping Japan's strong growth trend intact. With inventory ratios also falling, the coming months could also see production holding up firmly.

Japanese inflation

National inflation will 'take a breather' in September

National inflation will 'take a breather' in September

Source: CEIC

Robert Carnell

Chief Economist Head of Research, Asia-Pacific

+65 6232 6020

robert.carnell@asia.ing.com

Disclaimer

This publication has been prepared by ING solely for information purposes irrespective of a particular user's means, financial situation or investment objectives. The information does not constitute investment recommendation, and nor is it investment, legal or tax advice or an offer or solicitation to purchase or sell any financial instrument. Read more