Eurozone: Key data releases to see the speed of recovery

For the eurozone, next week will be all about the speed of the recovery. The German Ifo, eurozone PMIs and eurozone consumer confidence will all give a bit more direction on the current speed of growth. August surveys showed signs of a significant slowdown, which makes sense after the fast recovery of the reopening months. September data should provide some guidance on whether the momentum has slowed further or whether it has stabilised.
