

Webinar: Computational Social Science: Addressing the (post) Covid-19 reality

Computational Social Science offers tools that can assist both policy makers and the private sector in the design and implementation of measures to address the economic and social challenges posed by Covid-19. Join a webinar on this important topic on 24 June, 2020 at 16.00 CET (10.00 EST)

ING's Mark Cliffe

Computational Social Science offers tools that can assist both policymakers and the private sector in the design and implementation of measures to address the economic and social challenges posed by Covid-19. How can the growing sources of (alternative) data and data science be used in a meaningful and responsible way to providing reliable and practical knowledge without compromising privacy and safety of people whose data is collected and analysed? What are the methodological and regulatory solutions that could be applied to address the challenges and mitigate the risks? Our panellists will share their experience and ideas on these issues. There will also be time for questions from the audience.
