Hungary: Central budget still in surplus

With the government slowing the pre-financing of EU projects, the year-to-date budget balance has remained in surplus in February.

The year-to-date balance of the general government budget came in at HUF 67.3bn in February. The cash flow based budget posted a deficit of HUF 177.2bn, mainly due to social support measures and development programmes.

The revenue side is still strong. The government cashed in HUF 275bn more revenue just from VAT in the first two month of 2019. Personal income tax, payroll tax and excise duties are all rising above expectations. These developments mainly stem from the tight labour market driving wages higher and so translating into a high consumption rate.
As the Ministry of Finance press release pointed out, Brussels has transferred HUF281.4bn in 2019 so far, already almost five times more than a year ago. In the meantime, with the government slowing the pre-financing of EU projects, related expenditures reached only HUF200.2bn. The budget posted a net inflow for EU projects in the first two months of the year.

The strong start to the year and the better-than-expected 2018 budgetary figures mean that we see more than enough fiscal room for the newly announced fiscal measures. The new demographic action plan might cost HUF120-150bn in 2019. The government can easily finance this without altering the 1.8% of GDP Maastricht deficit target. The next question concerns the soon-to-be-announced economic protection action plan. With this programme in the pipeline, we see a slim chance that the government will slightly alter its original deficit plan later this year.

Peter Virovacz
Senior Economist, Hungary
+36 1 235 8757
peter.virovacz@ing.com
Disclaimer

“THINK Outside” is a collection of specially commissioned content from third-party sources, such as economic think-tanks and academic institutions, that ING deems reliable and from non-research departments within ING. ING Bank N.V. ("ING") uses these sources to expand the range of opinions you can find on the THINK website. Some of these sources are not the property of or managed by ING, and therefore ING cannot always guarantee the correctness, completeness, actuality and quality of such sources, nor the availability at any given time of the data and information provided, and ING cannot accept any liability in this respect, insofar as this is permissible pursuant to the applicable laws and regulations. This publication does not necessarily reflect the ING house view. This publication has been prepared solely for information purposes without regard to any particular user’s investment objectives, financial situation, or means. The information in the publication is not an investment recommendation and it is not investment, legal or tax advice or an offer or solicitation to purchase or sell any financial instrument. Reasonable care has been taken to ensure that this publication is not untrue or misleading when published, but ING does not represent that it is accurate or complete. ING does not accept any liability for any direct, indirect or consequential loss arising from any use of this publication. Unless otherwise stated, any views, forecasts, or estimates are solely those of the author(s), as of the date of the publication and are subject to change without notice. The distribution of this publication may be restricted by law or regulation in different jurisdictions and persons into whose possession this publication comes should inform themselves about, and observe, such restrictions. Copyright and database rights protection exists in this report and it may not be reproduced, distributed or published by any person for any purpose without the prior express consent of ING. All rights are reserved. ING Bank N.V. is authorised by the Dutch Central Bank and supervised by the European Central Bank (ECB), the Dutch Central Bank (DNB) and the Dutch Authority for the Financial Markets (AFM). ING Bank N.V. is incorporated in the Netherlands (Trade Register no. 33031431 Amsterdam).