

Hungary: Retail sales remain strong

Despite a slight slowdown in February, the retail sector is performing well overall as all of the main subsectors post good figures

Source: Shutterstock

Hungary retail sales turnover increased by 6.5% YoY in February, showing some deceleration and a downward surprise to market expectations. However, as this reading is around the last 6-month average, we don't want to read too much into this slowdown.

In the detail, all of the main subsectors in retail posted good figures, but only retail sales of automotive fuel showed acceleration, posting a 9.8% YoY increase, the highest reading since early 2015. Taking into consideration the first two months, this is the best start of the year in this subsector, which can be the effect of two things: a fuel price decrease in February and the general pick-up of economic activity affecting transportation. Turnover in food and non-food shops increased at a slower pace than in January, posting 3.8% and 8.5% YoY growth respectively.

Breakdown of retail sales (% YoY, wda)

Source: HCSO

The short-term future is bright

Retail sales have started this year better, than in 2017, but the turnover increase could be slower than in 4Q17. This can be changed by two facts: 1) the early Easter affecting consumer spending in March and 2) Hungary's 2.8 million pensioners getting the government's gift voucher worth HUF10,000 (EUR32) around the end of March.

Author

Peter Virovacz

Senior Economist, Hungary

peter.virovacz@ing.com

Disclaimer

This publication has been prepared by the Economic and Financial Analysis Division of ING Bank N.V. ("ING") solely for information purposes without regard to any particular user's investment objectives, financial situation, or means. ING forms part of ING Group (being for this purpose ING Group N.V. and its subsidiary and affiliated companies). The information in the publication is not an investment recommendation and it is not investment, legal or tax advice or an offer or solicitation to purchase or sell any financial instrument. Reasonable care has been taken to ensure that this publication is not untrue or misleading when published, but ING does not represent that it is accurate or complete. ING does not accept any liability for any direct, indirect or consequential loss arising from any use of this publication. Unless otherwise stated, any views, forecasts, or estimates are solely those of the author(s), as of the date of the publication and are subject to change without notice.

The distribution of this publication may be restricted by law or regulation in different jurisdictions and persons into whose possession this publication comes should inform themselves about, and observe, such restrictions.

Copyright and database rights protection exists in this report and it may not be reproduced, distributed or published by any person for any purpose without the prior express consent of ING. All rights are reserved. ING Bank N.V. is authorised by the Dutch Central Bank and supervised by the European Central Bank (ECB), the Dutch Central Bank (DNB) and the Dutch Authority for the Financial Markets (AFM). ING Bank N.V. is incorporated in the Netherlands (Trade Register no. 33031431 Amsterdam). In the United Kingdom this information is approved and/or communicated by ING Bank N.V., London Branch. ING Bank N.V., London Branch is authorised by the Prudential Regulation Authority and is subject to regulation by the Financial Conduct Authority and limited regulation by the Prudential Regulation Authority. ING Bank N.V., London branch is registered in England (Registration number BR000341) at 8-10

Moorgate, London EC2 6DA. For US Investors: Any person wishing to discuss this report or effect transactions in any security discussed herein should contact ING Financial Markets LLC, which is a member of the NYSE, FINRA and SIPC and part of ING, and which has accepted responsibility for the distribution of this report in the United States under applicable requirements.

Additional information is available on request. For more information about ING Group, please visit www.ing.com.