

Romania: 25 basis point cut, zero guidance

In an unscheduled meeting, the National Bank of Romania cut the key rate from 1.75% to 1.50% citing “extremely high uncertainties”. The press release offers little to chew on and leaves all options on the table

The National Bank of Romania building in Bucharest

Source: Shutterstock

Confirming market expectations for another cut – and against our call for flat rates for the rest of 2020 – the NBR Board decided to move ahead with its rate cut cycle. Besides mentioning a “slightly downward revision” of the inflation projection and “extremely high uncertainties”, the press release is remarkably neutral. Tomorrow’s quarterly Inflation Report will reveal the new NBR inflation forecasts, but we don’t expect major surprises from here and neither from the meeting minutes due to be published on 14 August.

We believe that the recent consolidation of the FX reserves (boosted mainly by Ministry of Finance Eurobond auctions) has probably given the NBR the confidence that it can continue easing its policy while maintaining exchange rate stability via FX interventions. This probably holds true for now, but given that the Eurobond issuance cannot maintain the same pace indefinitely and the precarious financing of the current account deficit, Romania will need to do wonders in terms of EU funds absorption starting next year in order for the above logic to remain valid.

In terms of bond buying, the NBR mentions that as of end-July the outstanding stands at almost RON4.8bn, meaning that the central bank stepped up its purchases in July to about RON800m from June's RON533m. In this regard, we maintain our call for an overall limited amount of bond purchases this year (below RON10bn). The NBR's goal still seems to be to prevent market dysfunctionalities and to smooth the sell-offs.

The uncertainties are truly extraordinary, but with stable inflation prospects and the economy already in the recovery phase, we don't see much scope for further rate cuts this year. In terms of market rates, we maintain our view for a year-end 3-month Robor at 2.00% as we don't believe that a parallel shift in interest rates will follow this rate cut.

Author

Valentin Tataru

Chief Economist, Romania

valentin.tataru@ing.com

Disclaimer

This publication has been prepared by the Economic and Financial Analysis Division of ING Bank N.V. ("ING") solely for information purposes without regard to any particular user's investment objectives, financial situation, or means. ING forms part of ING Group (being for this purpose ING Group N.V. and its subsidiary and affiliated companies). The information in the publication is not an investment recommendation and it is not investment, legal or tax advice or an offer or solicitation to purchase or sell any financial instrument. Reasonable care has been taken to ensure that this publication is not untrue or misleading when published, but ING does not represent that it is accurate or complete. ING does not accept any liability for any direct, indirect or consequential loss arising from any use of this publication. Unless otherwise stated, any views, forecasts, or estimates are solely those of the author(s), as of the date of the publication and are subject to change without notice.

The distribution of this publication may be restricted by law or regulation in different jurisdictions and persons into whose possession this publication comes should inform themselves about, and observe, such restrictions.

Copyright and database rights protection exists in this report and it may not be reproduced, distributed or published by any person for any purpose without the prior express consent of ING. All rights are reserved. ING Bank N.V. is authorised by the Dutch Central Bank and supervised by the European Central Bank (ECB), the Dutch Central Bank (DNB) and the Dutch Authority for the Financial Markets (AFM). ING Bank N.V. is incorporated in the Netherlands (Trade Register no. 33031431 Amsterdam). In the United Kingdom this information is approved and/or communicated by ING Bank N.V., London Branch. ING Bank N.V., London Branch is authorised by the Prudential Regulation Authority and is subject to regulation by the Financial Conduct Authority and limited regulation by the Prudential Regulation Authority. ING Bank N.V., London branch is registered in England (Registration number BR000341) at 8-10 Moorgate, London EC2 6DA. For US Investors: Any person wishing to discuss this report or effect transactions in any security discussed herein should contact ING Financial Markets LLC, which is a member of the NYSE, FINRA and SIPC and part of ING, and which has accepted responsibility for the distribution of this report in the United States under applicable requirements.

Additional information is available on request. For more information about ING Group, please visit <http://www.ing.com>.