

Romania: Budget gap widens in August

The January-August budget brought more of the same: moderate revenue growth and ballooning expenditures. This has led to the widest eight-month gap since 2011

Source: Shutterstock

The budget shortfall widened to -1.54% of GDP in August from -1.26% in the previous month. This is the widest budget deficit after eight months since 2011 when it stood at -2.3% of GDP.

Budget execution

Source: MinFin, ING

Revenues: reasonable but not great

Budget revenues are up 13.7% from a year ago. But after one-off income from profit taxes and dividend payments from state-owned enterprises (SOE's) in August, the revenues are – in nominal terms – back to this year's average. Fiscal revenues advanced a skimpy 0.8% year-on-year versus January-August 2017. A structural change in revenues is needed to ensure long-term sustainability. On the brighter side, VAT revenues continue to perform well, posting an 8.6% YoY increase versus the same period of 2017.

Revenue composition

Source: MinFin, ING

Expenditures: great but not reasonable

Spending continues to expand strongly, maintaining an 18% YoY growth rate after the first eight months of 2018, similar to the January-July 2018 period. The wage envelope continued to grow for a fifth consecutive month, at 25.2% versus the same period of 2017 and hence further increasing the share of quasi-permanent spending. The share of rigid public spending (wages plus social expenditures) now make up 62.8% of total expenditures.

January-August expenditure composition

Source: MinFin, ING

Wage envelope + social benefits as % of fiscal revenues + social contributions

Source: MinFin, ING

It looks like the government remains committed to the deficit target of 3.0% of GDP. The nominal GDP assumption for the budget plan is a bit optimistic versus our forecast. Still, a bit of patchwork here and there by cutting investment expenses, lowering co-financing needs due to below expectations absorption of EU funds, special dividends from SOEs and revising other spending plans that are clustered usually into the year-end will likely do the job for this year as well. Nevertheless, going forward, due to the increasing share of rigid state spending, the commitment to the budget deficit limit of 3.0% of GDP could become a trade-off between political costs associated with this 'fiscal rule' and those arising from entering the excessive deficit procedure (EDP), including lower budget flexibility.

Author

Valentin Tataru

Chief Economist, Romania

valentin.tataru@ing.com

Disclaimer

This publication has been prepared by the Economic and Financial Analysis Division of ING Bank N.V. ("ING") solely for information purposes without regard to any particular user's investment objectives, financial situation, or means. ING forms part of ING Group (being for this purpose ING Group N.V. and its subsidiary and affiliated companies). The information in the publication is not an investment recommendation and it is not investment, legal or tax advice or an offer or solicitation to purchase or sell any financial instrument. Reasonable care has been taken to ensure that this publication is not untrue or misleading when published, but ING does not represent that it is accurate or complete. ING does not accept any liability for any direct, indirect or consequential loss arising from any use of this publication. Unless otherwise stated, any views, forecasts, or estimates are solely those of the author(s), as of the date of the publication and are subject to change without notice.

The distribution of this publication may be restricted by law or regulation in different jurisdictions and persons into whose possession this publication comes should inform themselves about, and observe, such restrictions.

Copyright and database rights protection exists in this report and it may not be reproduced, distributed or published by any person for any purpose without the prior express consent of ING. All rights are reserved. ING Bank N.V. is authorised by the Dutch Central Bank and supervised by the European Central Bank (ECB), the Dutch Central Bank (DNB) and the Dutch Authority for the Financial Markets (AFM). ING Bank N.V. is incorporated in the Netherlands (Trade Register no. 33031431 Amsterdam). In the United Kingdom this information is approved and/or communicated by ING Bank N.V., London Branch. ING Bank N.V., London Branch is authorised by the Prudential Regulation Authority and is subject to regulation by the Financial Conduct Authority and limited regulation by the Prudential Regulation Authority. ING Bank N.V., London branch is registered in England (Registration number BR000341) at 8-10 Moorgate, London EC2 6DA. For US Investors: Any person wishing to discuss this report or effect transactions in any security discussed herein should contact ING Financial Markets LLC, which is a member of the NYSE, FINRA and SIPC and part of ING, and which has accepted responsibility for the distribution of this report in the United States under applicable requirements.

Additional information is available on request. For more information about ING Group, please visit <http://www.ing.com>.