

The Commodities Feed

Your daily roundup of commodities news and ING views

Source: Shutterstock

Chart of the day: Brazilian real drives sugar prices higher... for now

Source: Bloomberg, ING Research

Energy

US crude oil inventories: Numbers from the American Petroleum Institute surprised the market yesterday, with US crude oil inventories declining by 2.13MMbbls over the last week, compared to expectations of a stock build. The API also reported that gasoline inventories declined by 3.42MMbbls, whilst middle distillate fuel oil stocks fell by 246Mbbbls. The Energy Information Administration is scheduled to release its weekly report later today, and expectations are for a crude oil build of somewhere around 2.5MMbbls, according to a Bloomberg survey.

Saudi-Kuwait neutral zone: According to Platts, discussions between Saudi Arabia and Kuwait to restart production at two oilfields in the neutral zone have broken down, with sovereignty reportedly an issue. The Khafji and Wafra oilfields could have added as much as 500Mbbbls/d of production, and some in the market had been expecting to see a restart of production in the neutral zone to help offset further potential losses from Iran as a result of US sanctions.

Metals

Iron ore production: Production updates from miners have largely been positive so far, with both Vale and BHP reporting robust growth in iron ore production. Vale and BHP saw output rising 10% year-on-year and 8% YoY to 105mt and 69mt respectively in 3Q18. Meanwhile, Rio Tinto reported a 5% YoY fall in shipments, with shipments totalling 82mt due to planned maintenance and safety pauses. Combined supplies from all three miners were up 6% YoY to 256mt in 3Q18. The last of the big four, Fortescue is scheduled to release its latest production update on the 25 October. Meanwhile, turning to demand, the World Steel Association has said that global steel demand growth may slow from 3.9% in 2018 to 1.4% in 2019 as trade tensions hurt Chinese consumption.

Agriculture

Sugar set for a downward correction? The No.11 sugar market has rallied over 20% since the start of October, driven by a recovery in the Brazilian real and crop downgrades in both CS Brazil and the EU. However, as we wrote in a report earlier this week, we do expect the pressure of Indian sugar exports to weigh on the market in the near term. That said, we do become more constructive towards the sugar market when we move into the 2019/20 season, with the global balance expected to tighten.

Author

Warren Patterson

Head of Commodities Strategy

Warren.Patterson@asia.ing.com

Disclaimer

This publication has been prepared by the Economic and Financial Analysis Division of ING Bank N.V. ("ING") solely for information purposes without regard to any particular user's investment objectives, financial situation, or means. ING forms part of ING Group (being for this purpose ING Group N.V. and its subsidiary and affiliated companies). The information in the publication is not an investment recommendation and it is not investment, legal or tax advice or an offer or solicitation to purchase or sell any financial instrument. Reasonable care has been taken to ensure that this publication is not untrue or misleading when published, but ING does not represent that it is accurate or complete. ING does not accept any liability for any direct, indirect or consequential loss arising from any use of this publication. Unless otherwise stated, any views, forecasts, or estimates are solely those of the author(s).

as of the date of the publication and are subject to change without notice.

The distribution of this publication may be restricted by law or regulation in different jurisdictions and persons into whose possession this publication comes should inform themselves about, and observe, such restrictions.

Copyright and database rights protection exists in this report and it may not be reproduced, distributed or published by any person for any purpose without the prior express consent of ING. All rights are reserved. ING Bank N.V. is authorised by the Dutch Central Bank and supervised by the European Central Bank (ECB), the Dutch Central Bank (DNB) and the Dutch Authority for the Financial Markets (AFM). ING Bank N.V. is incorporated in the Netherlands (Trade Register no. 33031431 Amsterdam). In the United Kingdom this information is approved and/or communicated by ING Bank N.V., London Branch. ING Bank N.V., London Branch is authorised by the Prudential Regulation Authority and is subject to regulation by the Financial Conduct Authority and limited regulation by the Prudential Regulation Authority. ING Bank N.V., London branch is registered in England (Registration number BR000341) at 8-10 Moorgate, London EC2 6DA. For US Investors: Any person wishing to discuss this report or effect transactions in any security discussed herein should contact ING Financial Markets LLC, which is a member of the NYSE, FINRA and SIPC and part of ING, and which has accepted responsibility for the distribution of this report in the United States under applicable requirements.

Additional information is available on request. For more information about ING Group, please visit www.ing.com.